Rationale of the Course:

- ♦ Since the 1980s, Women's Studies has been an important field of research and teaching in universities in India and internationally.
- ♦ The National Policy for the Empowerment of Women, 2001 states the mainstreaming of a gender perspective in the development process and strengthening partnerships with women's organisations as one of the major goals and objectives. It is therefore important to integrate information and knowledge about gender in the economy, social empowerment and mass media at the undergraduate level.
- ♦ The UGC guidelines state that the development of Women's studies through teaching programmes at under-graduate level will enable to expand the base of Women's Studies.
- ♦ A qualification in Women's Studies is being viewed as a useful addition to existing qualification and skills by government departments, social agencies and professions.

- ♦ Some students may choose to do advance courses or Master's programme in Women's Studies.

Location and mode of study:

This course can be taken at the University or any of the designated off campus centres. The course will be conducted twice a year – once in each term at one college in Pune city and Pune rural. i.e. in one term – the Course will be conducted at a rural college and in the next in one city college. The centres may be shifted so as to reach out to maximum number of students.

The course may also be run in intensive mode that is the Undergraduate Interdisciplinary Certificate Course in Women and Development which runs for three monthys 6 hours a week (total 84 hours) or may be floated as a 4 weeks course with 4 hours of teaching for 5 days.

Information regarding the Centres will be sent out to all colleges in the month of April every year.

Special effort will be made to establish linkages between the Computer Centre of the college and the Krantijyoti Savitribai Phule Computer Lab, so that information related to the course and follow-up links may be established.
